

Dear Member,

Please refer to the subject symposium, scheduled for November 28-30, 2011 at Faridabad

I am sorry to inform that due to unavoidable circumstances, we are forced to postpone the Symposium dates to January 12-14, 2012.

This decision has been taken keeping in view of number of requests received from our members and also endorsed by Executive Committee members, because of the Semester Examinations in many Universities and Colleges in the NCR region of New Delhi during November-December. These examinations have been introduced for the first time in the Universities by Government, and hence we could visualize at the time of initial planning. Due to these examinations, which will last during November last week to 3rd week of December, large number of students/research scholars and Faculty members are unable to participate in the symposium.

As on Date, we have confirmation from 20 Invited Speakers (all slots full), and have received about 65 contributory papers. By rescheduling the dates, we expect number of contributory papers to increase further with significant increase in delegate numbers.

With this, the last date abstract submission has also been extended till 7th December, 2011.

We are extremely sorry for this inconvenience and hope that you will be available for participating in the symposium rescheduled for January 12-14, 2012.
